

THE SUPREME COURT of OHIO JUDICIAL COLLEGE

For Probation Officers

Substance Abuse

Who Should Attend this Course. This course was designed for probation officers and those managing substance abusing clients.

Course Description. This course will be divided into two sessions.

Morning Session: Understanding Substance Abuse: Squirrel Logic. Alcohol and mood-altering chemicals cause physical and chemical responses by the body and brain to these chemicals. They not only change the way offenders feel, they change the way their bodies work and how they think. Moreover, not just for that day, but for days to months afterward. Over time, these changes lead to bigger changes that can ultimately result in addiction, physical debility, and death. In this session, faculty will present how alcohol and drugs of abuse affect the body and brain. By going through the different classes of substances (alcohol, THC, opiates, etc.), participants will see not only how these substances differ, but in what important ways they are the same. Faculty will also review how therapists treat addiction in 2012 and what interventions may be coming in the near future.

Faculty. Brad Lander, PhD, LICDC, Psychologist/Clinical Director, OSU Department of Addiction Medicine at Talbot Hall

Afternoon Session: Components of an Effective Drug Testing Program. Effective drug testing in a court-mandated program is essential to overall success with substance abusing clients. This presentation is designed to provide information and strategies for building and maintaining a successful drug testing program. Collection strategies and result interpretation - two essential components of a credible testing program will be discussed. Attendees will learn the reasons for testing, how to select clients for maximum abstinence surveillance, and the types of specimens that yield the best results. Additional focus issues will include controlling sample tampering, debunking drug testing myths, and learning about designer drugs.

Faculty. Paul L. Cary, Director, Toxicology Laboratory, University of Missouri
