

THE SUPREME COURT of OHIO JUDICIAL COLLEGE

FOR COURT PERSONNEL, JUDGES AND MAGISTRATES

New Americans: Mexico Revisited

This course is offered in partnership with The Supreme Court of Ohio Interpreter Services Program.

Course Description. Following up on the success of last year's New American course on Mexico, Dr. Tony Payan is back to discuss U.S.-Mexico border issues, the drug trade, immigration and the impact of Mexican politics on policy matters.

Below, please see a sampling of feedback about last year's program with Dr. Payan:

- One of the best I have attended in my 25+ years on the bench.
- Helped clarify differences between Mexican and U.S. legal approaches.
- More in-depth information on the immigrant issues underlying the matters that are surfacing in court.

Participants will also receive an update on the Rules of Superintendence related to the appointment of interpreters.

Faculty.

Dr. Tony Payan is an associate professor of political science at the University of El Paso. His area of studies is in the field of international relations, with emphasis on U.S. Foreign Policy; Mexican foreign policy; U.S.-Mexico relations; and international relations theory on the border. Dr. Payan has taught courses on American government and politics, international relations, United States foreign policy, international regimes, international law, the politics of Mexico, border issues and border research, qualitative methodology, and international organizations.

David A. Hejmanowski has been a juvenile and probate court magistrate for Delaware County since January of 2003. Prior to that, he served as an assistant prosecuting attorney for Delaware County, handling more than 400 felony cases. He was appointed in 2005 by Chief Justice Moyer to the Supreme Court Advisory Committee on Interpreter Services. In July 2008 he began a three-year term on the Ohio State Bar Association Board of Governors. He is a frequent presenter for the Judicial College.

Bruno G. Romero is the manager of the Interpreter Services Program at the Supreme Court of Ohio. Romero is responsible for developing resources, standards and procedures for the use of interpreters in Ohio courts. He also presents and coordinates trainings for interpreters and court personnel on language access matters and issues of diversity. In collaboration with the Ohio Judicial College, he has developed the New Americans Series of courses that offer culturally-based training for court personnel. As part of the strategy to design and implement practical guidelines of operation for the use of court interpreters, Romero has developed a number of video and written resources for Ohio judicial officers, court personnel and interpreters.
